Albany County's Rensselaerville Meeting Center offers something special to organizations seeking conference facilities, and Joe Maloney is determined to see that continue.

"We're living in some pretty difficult times for the hospitality industry," said Maloney, Rensselaerville's new executive director. "So we're renewing our focus on our mission statement—hosting 'meetings that matter'—and clients choosing us because having a meeting here makes it better."

Maloney has spent nearly 20 years at the center, out of a 30-year career.

He comes to his new position from the food and beverage department, where he was a certified executive chef and food/beverage director.
